Subject: Make Remedies More Forceful

Dear DOJ:

I have been following the case vs. Microsoft closely because I am an average user that feels that competition in the industry is lacking. Microsoft has managed to leverage its way into one area after another because of its monopoly power. The WordPerfect word processor and Netscape Navigator web browser are prime examples. Once dominate applications fell when Microsoft abused its monopoly power.

The recent proposed settlement appears too weak to me. Please consider taking stronger action to restore competition in such an important part of our economy.

Kind regards,
Andy Arnold
